Great Views Around Uchinada!

Sunset Bridge Uchinada

Sunset Bridge Uchinada, a town symbol, is a graceful 344 meter long cable-stayed bridge that is lit up from sunset to 9 p.m. (9:30 p.m. from April to September). When lit up it envelops the surrounding area in a romantic atmosphere.

Uchinada Coast

The Uchinada coast boasts a 200 meter long stretch of sandy beach and bustles with marine sports and beach goers alike. It is one of Japan's 3 largest sand-duned beaches, and was designated as one of Japan's top 100 hundred beaches by the Ministry of the Environment.

Lovers' Sanctuary

The area surrounding the Uchinada Beach and Sunset Bridge Uchinada has been designated as a Lovers' Sanctuary. Couples often visit the bell tower here to enjoy the 360° view, and ring the "Bell of Happiness".

Take a peak into the history that shaped this dune town along with the wind and sand.

Awagasaki Amusement Park Hokuriku's Takarazuka

Awagasaki Amusement Park opened in 1925 nestled amongst Uchinada's dunes. This expensive property was built on roughly 50 acres and included a large theater, lodging, amusement park, baseball field, and a ski slope to entertain park guests. The performances by the resident all girls theater troupe were immensely popular, especially among the younger generation, and the park became known as the "Takarazuka of Hokuriku". Awagasaki Amusement Park was swept away by the war and the times, and literally crumbled like a house of cards, leaving no trace. However, a singular artifact remains, a part of the arch of the old main building survives to this day.

UCHINADA KEY WORDS

Dune Literature Uchinada's sea and dunes inspired many literary figures.

Many literary figures fell in love with the history and climate unique to Uchinada's dunes and depicted them in their work. Common themes deal with the 10 years following the end of World War II during the Uchinada Struggle and depict protagonists grappling with their way of life in those chaotic times. If it were not for the long history of Uchinada villagers' fighting against the wind and harsh climate, this kind of literature may have never been written.

Yasushi Inoue Monument

The wind ripples seen on the dunes are truly a natural work of art.

Obama Shrine

This is a shrine with a long history, it bears the family crest of the Maeda family of the Kaga domain. The main shrine was built by the Kaga clan in 1828 and moved to the present location in 1889.

Uchinada Struggle Japan's First Anti-Base Struggle

In 1952, after World War II, the government took over the Uchinada dunes as an artillery test range for U.S. forces in Japan, which led to the Uchinada Struggle, the first nationwide anti-base struggle. The fierce opposition, waged under the slogan "Money is for one year, land is for ten thousand years," came to an end with the complete withdrawal of U.S. forces in 1957.

The World Kite Festival

A big event where kites from all over the world gather on the Uchinada dunes! Every year, kite enthusiasts from Japan and abroad challenge each other with their Japanese and Western kites. The World Kite Festival is held in May every year.

Kahokugata is the largest lagoon in the prefecture, covering an area of 4.20 km², and spans Uchinada Town, Kanazawa City, Tsubata Town, and Kahoku City. Many migratory birds such as swans and geese flying in from Siberia can be seen here, making it a treasure trove of wild birds and a popular place for bird watching.

The Birth of a Delicious Treat

When you visit Uchinada, you have got to try this local gourmet sweet, which has a delicious story behind it.

Uchinada Mochi

Uchinada Mochi was born several years ago when Uchinada was looking to create local specialties. These rice cakes are a recreation of the peanut mochi Mr. Kawabe remembers eating as a young boy. The slightly sweet peanuts and soft rice cake make for a delicious combination. He makes the rice and peanuts used in the mochi with his son which gives Uchinada Mochi a distinctive handmade taste that can only be found locally.

■ Sold at Road Station Sunset Park and Kanazawa Medical School Hospital Store

The secret to its softness is that it adjusts its moisture content according to temperature and humidity!

All of the peanuts used are grown and shelled by hand.

Perennial Favorites

MADE IN UCHINADA

Surrounded by rich nature, agriculture that used the sand dunes have flourished for a long time. Here are some of Uchinada's local specialties!

Japanese Shallot

01

These 3-year Japanese shallots are grown on the dunes under the beach sun and wind. They are pickled in a homemade sweet vinegar. Their crispy texture is addictive.

This spicy curry made with shallot puree is also popular!

Kahoku no Kofuku is made from local yogurt. It has a refreshing sourness, a rich sweetness, and a thick creamy texture.

Dune Sweet Potato

03

Dunes offer good drainage which is perfect for sweet potato production. This variety is sweet and sticky.

Dune Watermelon

04

Fresh grown Uchinada dune watermelons are large with a reddish flesh and are known for their good texture and high sugar content.

05

Local Milk

Milk that has been pasturized slowly at 65° for 30 minutes. This milk is rich in calcium with a taste and nutritional value nearly as good as getting it right from the cow.

Koshihikari Rice

06

As its name suggests, "Masshiro Peppe" is bright white and glossy after cooking. It has a slight sweetness to it. This rice does not turn yellow easily even after a long time.
